

Least Popular Halloween Treats for 2008

by Baron von Funny

It's Halloween again, time for neighborhoods filled with boys and girls looking for free treats. But there are a few items the kids hope not to find in their goodie bags...

Least Popular Halloween Treats for 2008

- Boxed set of Arli$$ DVDs. (Jameson)
- Gummi-Bidens. (Joe)
- Angry leaflets from the McCain campaign about the evils of redistributing candy wealth. (Jameson)
- KFC Gravy Squeezers. (Brandon)
- Secret Muslim Bars ("Now with more Koran flavor!"). (Mike)
- "The Clear for Kids" dissolving tongue strips. (Brad)
- Newman's Own sugar-coated bits of freeze-dried Paul Newman. (Jameson)
- Reese's Peanut Butter Cunts. (Brandon)
- Authentic Wasilla moose jerky. (Jameson)
- Razor blades with Milky Way bars hidden inside of them. (Joe)
- Deck of playing cards with pictures of hedge fund managers and bank CEOs on them. (Jameson)
- A tear-stained Huckabee '08 button. (Mike)
- ChocoNutWadz, Pfizer's over-the-counter Snickers substitute for peanut-allergic children. (Jameson)
- Teeth that fell out of John McCain's mouth. (Mike)
- S&Ms. (Jameson)
- Vladimir Putin posable action figure ("Now with human rights violations grip!"). (Brad)
- Koosh balls. Hey, remember Koosh balls? (Jameson)
- Pink slip from Daddy's office. (Mike)
- Extra nutty Obama hope muffins. (Brandon)
- Salinity Now! brand taffy-free saltwater taffy. (Jameson)
- A 45-minute DVD of Tim McCarver explaining why a fat

guy shouldn't bunt. (Mike)

—A three-hour long harangue about Jesus. (Joe)

—Oreos n' Salsa. (Jameson)

—State of the Economy Bars (just a shiny, empty wrapper). (Mike)

Baron von Contributors: Brad Kruse, Brandon Kruse, Joe Mulder, Jameson Simmons, Mike Wagner
